

Stay Connected

Ensuring that the residents, business owners and governments of the region are engaged, kept informed and play a role in the planning and delivery of the Gordie Howe International Bridge project is not only a top priority for Windsor-Detroit Bridge Authority (WDBA) but a commitment made during the DRIC study. Since 2015, WDBA has held numerous meetings with the community to seek feedback and discuss questions, concerns and topics of interest. The community will continue to have consultation opportunities with WDBA’s private-sector partner, Bridging North America during design, construction and operation phases of the project.

What do we do with your feedback?

- It informs the implementation of construction mitigation plans.
- It helps us address construction concerns/impacts.
- Helps inform/improve the final design of the Gordie Howe International Bridge.
- We catalogue and track all feedback that is received to ensure answers/responses are provided in a timely manner. Information may be passed along to the design and construction teams.

Have questions or concerns?

We encourage open dialogue and will work to answer your questions. WDBA will act as the “one-window” source to address all public and stakeholder inquiries and there are many ways to get in touch with us.

Community Offices

To make it easier for residents and business owners in the Sandwich and Delray communities, WDBA will open community offices to provide venues for people to ask questions, view plans and gather project information. The offices will be staffed by WDBA representatives on a part-time basis with additional service hours possible depending on the demand.
